Maaike van den Haak was born in 1976 and graduated (cum laude) in English Language and Culture at the VU, Amsterdam, in 2000. She then worked as a translator/editor for a small translation agency, before starting her PhD research in Enschede in June 2001. Ever since 2002, she has combined her research with a part time teaching position in the English Language and Culture department.